

I believe that if I'm willing to pay for a service that is far better than anything being offered for free, I should be entitled to do so. Since XM has been providing Instant traffic and weather, my commuting life has improved dramatically. I live in the Washington DC area and find this service to be the best thing that has come along in a long time. It makes my 3 plus hours of commuting a day that much better by providing me information when I need it and not when it is programmed between 8 minutes of redundant talk and commercials. It helps me daily as I commute by providing me the information I need to get to work and back without having to run into traffic jams and back-ups and plan my route accordingly. If this was to disappear now, I would be greatly disappointed when in such a short time it has become a major tool in my daily commute. Please leave XM as it is and let the people who want to see it gone learn to evolve and rise to the challenge to compete with XM and try to provide a similar service that the public can use and appreciate. Isn't that how capitalism is suppose to work ?
Sincerely

Greg Dailey